Directions (18-25) Read the following passage and answer the given questions.

Directions: Read the question passage thoroughly and answer the questions that follow.

For decades, India has prided itself on being the world's largest democracy, a nation that embraces diversity and equality. Yet, within the hallowed halls of political power, a stark gender imbalance persists. The approval of the Women's Reservation Bill by the Union Cabinet, for likely passage during Parliament's ongoing special session, highlights a glaring truth. Political parties have had ample opportunities to rectify this imbalance but chose not to. The statistics speak volumes. According to a recent Inter-Parliamentary Union study, India ranks a disheartening 149th out of 193 countries in terms of female representation in the lower house of Parliament.

In a country where women make up half the population, they hold a mere 14 per cent of seats in the Lok Sabha and 11 per cent in the Rajya Sabha. These figures are inexcusable and paint a gloomy picture of gender inequality in our political landscape. One might wonder why, in a democratic system, where the power to change rests with the people, such a disparity persists. The answer lies in the choices made by political parties themselves. Over the years, parties have failed to take the initiative to correct the imbalance voluntarily. They could have easily fielded women candidates in a third of the constituencies they contested in Lok Sabha and state assembly elections. It was a simple step that could have made a profound impact on women's representation in politics. However, they chose not to, merely offering lip service to the cause of gender equality.

The Women's Reservation Bill, which seeks to reserve one-third of all seats in the Lok Sabha and state assemblies for women, now stands as a legislative remedy for this imbalance. While some may argue that such a measure is heavy-handed, it is important to remember that it arises from a vacuum in voluntary action. It is the result of decades of unfulfilled promises and persistent gender bias within political parties.

The reluctance of political parties to address this imbalance voluntarily has been nothing short of disappointing. Women's representation in the Lok Sabha has grown at a snail's pace since Independence, from a mere 4.4 per cent in 1952 to just 12.15 per cent after the 2014 Lok Sabha elections. (A) The progress has been lethargic and it's a stark reminder that democracy_____

Opposition to the Women's Reservation Bill, brought forward 27 years ago, centred on concerns of fairness and the democratic right to compete based on merit rather than gender. (B) About discriminating against men (A)/ in the context of the systemic exclusion and (B)/ the injustices women have historically faced. (C)/ Gender-based seat reservation is not (D)/However, this argument is untenable when viewed (E)/. It's about rectifying a deeply entrenched societal bias. Directions (31-37) Read the following passage and answer the given questions.

Directions: Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

In a promising development for India's corporate landscape, the credit quality of businesses across the country exhibited significant strength and resilience during the first half of the financial year 2024 (H1 FY2024). A recent report by ICRA, a leading credit rating agency, revealed that India Inc.'s credit profiles have been bolstered by robust domestic consumption and investments in various sectors. The ICRA report, released on Tuesday, _____ in the credit quality of both investment-grade and non-investment-grade categories. Although the pace of this improvement moderated in comparison with the previous two fiscal years, it marks a positive trajectory for India's economic recovery.

Six key sectors played a pivotal role in driving the credit quality improvements observed in H1

FY2024: hospitality, auto components, power, realty, roads, and financials. Together, these sectors accounted for nearly half of the total instances of credit upgrades during this period.

Hospitality Sector Rebounds: The hospitality sector has been on a remarkable rebound trajectory, rebounding from the significant adverse impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic experienced in 2020 and 2021. Critical operating metrics such as occupancy rates and average room rates have seen a sharp recovery, prompting several upgrades over the past 18 months. The sector's resilience signifies a promising revival of India's tourism and hospitality industry.

Auto Components Thrive: The increasing demand from end-user industries, especially in the passenger vehicle and commercial vehicle segments, has significantly contributed to the upgrades of auto component manufacturers and automobile dealers. This surge reflects the buoyant automotive sector, which continues to be a key driver of economic growth.

Realty's Resilience: The realty sector has shown resilience with healthy sales and collections in the residential segment, along with improved leasing activity in the commercial and retail segments. These factors have contributed to a reduction in leverage levels for several real estate entities, supporting their credit upgrades. Realty's performance is indicative of renewed confidence in the Indian real estate market.

Power Sector Reforms: In the power sector, several entities were upgraded following the realization of their long-pending receivables from power distribution companies. These dues were cleared under the Late Payment Surcharge (LPS) scheme, highlighting the positive impact of policy reforms on India's power sector.

Roads Sector Driven by Risk Mitigation: Several Special Purpose Vehicles (SPVs) in the roads sector experienced upgrades in H1 FY2024, largely due to entity-specific factors focused on mitigating project execution risks. The achievement of final or provisional dates of completion for projects, coupled with the receipt of initial semi-annual payments without significant deductions, underscored the sector's progress.

Financial Sector's Strong Fundamentals: The financial sector witnessed improvements in credit profiles due to steady credit growth, stable asset quality indicators, and equity capital mobilization. This trend was particularly prominent in the microfinance segment, highlighting the sector's robust fundamentals.

There are broader economic implications. The strengthening of India Inc's credit quality is a positive signal for the broader Indian economy. A healthier credit environment can catalyze further investments, job creation, and economic growth. Here are some of the broader economic implications:

Investment Climate: Improved credit quality is likely to boost investor confidence, encouraging both domestic and foreign investments. Businesses with stronger credit profiles may find it easier to secure funding for expansion and capital expenditure projects.

Job Creation: As businesses thrive and expand, they are more likely to hire new employees. A robust job market can stimulate consumer spending and drive economic growth.

Economic Recovery: India's post-pandemic recovery has been a central focus, and the credit quality surge in H1 FY2024 contributes to this narrative. It indicates that businesses have been able to adapt and recover from the pandemic's impact, laying the foundation for sustained economic growth.

Sectoral Resilience: The sectoral diversity in credit quality improvements suggests that multiple segments of the Indian economy are regaining strength. This resilience can help buffer against economic shocks in the future.

Credit Access: Businesses with improved credit profiles are better positioned to access credit at favorable terms, enabling them to invest in innovation and expansion, ultimately driving economic development.

While the credit quality improvements are encouraging, it's essential to recognize that economic challenges persist. India faces hurdles such as inflationary pressures, supply chain disruptions, and global economic uncertainties that could impact the trajectory of credit quality improvement. Looking ahead, sustained efforts to address these challenges, coupled with continued policy support, will be crucial for India Inc's credit quality to maintain its upward trajectory. Additionally, the emphasis on sustainability, digital transformation, and innovation will play a pivotal role in shaping the long-term competitiveness of Indian businesses. In conclusion, the ICRA report's findings paint an optimistic picture of India Inc's resilience and adaptability in the face of economic challenges. The credit quality improvements observed across various sectors in H1 FY2024 provide a solid foundation for India's economic recovery and future growth prospects. As India continues to navigate the evolving global landscape, these improvements are a testament to the nation's ability to overcome adversity and emerge stronger.

Hints & Solutions

Q1 Text Solution:

The highlighted phrase is incorrect. Before the adjective 'higher' we need an adverb. But the word 'significant' is an adjective.

Statement 1 cannot replace the bold phrase because it is not correct. The word excessive is an adjective and the word increased is also an adjective here. We need an adverb before 'increased'.

In sentence 2, we have an adverb to qualify the adjective 'higher'. Similarly in sentence 3, we have an adverb 'comparatively' to qualify the adjective 'increased'.

Both 2 and 3 can replace the highlighted phrase.

The correct sentences after improvement:-

2. People with obstructive sleep apnoea may be at significantly higher risk of suffering long Covid, according to a study.

3. People with obstructive sleep apnoea may be at comparatively increased risk of suffering long Covid, according to a study.

Thus, (c) is the right answer.

Q2 Text Solution:

The given sentence contains a bold phrase that is grammatically incorrect. The word 'definitely' is an adverb and it does not make any sense when used before the noun; 'role'.

In sentence 1, the use of 'importance' is grammatically wrong here. Here we need an adjective and not a noun.

In both sentences 2 and 3, the use of words is correct and both these phrases are grammatically correct.

The correct sentences after improvement:-

2. These high temperatures play an extremely crucial role in the intensification of cyclonic storms as they infuse more convection.

3. These high temperatures play a very important role in the intensification of cyclonic storms as they infuse more convection.

Thus, (b) is the right answer.

Q3 Text Solution:

The phrase given in bold is incorrect. The word 'meritorious' cannot fit here as it refers to something that deserves reward or praise.

Sentence 1 and sentence 2 both are grammatically correct and meaningful. Both 1 and 2 can replace the highlighted phrase.

Sentence 3 is incorrect. Here 'ramifications', which means 'complex or unwelcome consequence of an action or event' does not make any sense. Also, the word 'develop' makes no sense. Here we need a noun instead of a verb.

The correct sentences after improvement:-

1. The Supreme Court on May 12, in a judgment, said there are serious blunders and unreliability in the execution of the Protection of Women from Sexual Harassment Act, leaving many working women no choice but to leave their jobs.

2. The Supreme Court on May 12, in a judgment, said there are serious lapses and uncertainty in the implementation of the Protection of Women from Sexual Harassment Act, leaving many working women no choice but to leave their jobs.

Thus, (a) is the right answer.

Q4 Text Solution:

The highlighted phrase is incorrect. There is no phrase as 'rope down'. The correct phrase is 'rope in', which means to 'engage' or 'talk into'.

Also, the use of 'this' before a plural word is incorrect.

Sentence 2 is incorrect because the use of 'this' is wrong here. Also, the nouns 'design' and 'conduction' do not make any sense here.

Both 1 and 3 can replace the highlighted phrase. The phrase 'talk someone into' is the same in meaning as 'rope in'. The former takes 'V+ing' after it. Both these phrases mean the same, that is, 'persuade someone to take part in an activity despite their reluctance'.

The correct sentences after improvement:-

1. With its decades of experience in conducting human clinical trials, it makes eminent sense to talk the ICMR into designing and conducting these trials.

3. With its decades of experience in conducting human clinical trials, it makes eminent sense to rope in the ICMR to design and conduct these trials.

Thus, (c) is the right answer.

Q5 Text Solution:

The sentence states that if the US doesn't handle the ongoing green card backlog, it risks losing qualified workers to its northern neighbours and other nations.

The usage of the word "addressal" is incorrect in the highlighted phrase. It needs to be replaced with the verb "address". So, only 1 and 3 can replace the highlighted phrase.

Phrase 2 can't replace the highlighted phrase because the use of the word "suggest" modifies the intended meaning of the sentence.

Hence, option (B) is the correct answer.

Q6 Text Solution:

The above sentence mentions that India is a great choice to help shape the global AI regulatory framework due to its thriving technology sector.

The position of the word "well" is incorrect in the highlighted phrase. Also, the gerund "playing" is incorrect to use in the context of this sentence. Here, "to" must be followed by {V1} i.e. the infinitive form of the verb "play".

So, phrases 2 and 3 can replace the highlighted phrase of the sentence.

Phrase 1 is inappropriate as it changes the intended meaning of the sentence.

Hence, option (C) is the correct answer.

Q7 Text Solution:

The sentence discusses the increasing competition between the US and China in the global economy, particularly in artificial intelligence, leading to concerns among US tech companies about the challenges posed by the country's immigration system in recruiting top talent.

The usage of the preposition "between" for so many "tech companies" is incorrect to use.

Thus, phrases 1 and 2 can replace the highlighted phrase in context of the sentence.

Hence, option (A) is the correct answer.

Q8 Text Solution:

The sentence states that India's successful moon landing is a perfect example of the value of fusing scientific expertise with inventiveness and accomplishing challenging objectives despite early mistakes.

In the highlighted phrase, the subject "moon land" is incorrect. The correct subject to use here is "moon landing". Also, the use of the plural verb "underscore" for the singular subject "moon landing" is incorrect.

Among the phrases, only phrases 1 and 3 can replace the highlighted phrase.

Hence, option (B) is the correct answer.

Q9 Text Solution:

CADEB is the correct sequence. There can be no argument regarding the Choice for the 1st sentence as it is introducing the issue. In C it is mentioned that court proceedings are inaccurate and in sentence A it is only elaborated therefore it is the next sentence of the sequence. The argument is justified in statement D, therefore it is just continuing the paragraph and must be the next statement. E is one of the way to deal with the things and therefore it must come next.

Q10 Text Solution:

The sentences in the sequence of CBFADGE form a coherent paragraph which is about the Indian Science Congress (ISC). Considering the given options, statement (C) makes the most logical start to the paragraph. Sentences (B) and (F) are complementary and there is a similar case with the sentences (G) and (E). Sentence (A) should follow (F) to make a better chain of logical statements. Hence (b) is the most suitable option.

Q11 Text Solution:

The sentence (A) should begin the paragraph as it starts with the theme of the paragraph. It should subsequently be followed by the statements (B), (D) and (C). The sentence (F) concludes the paragraph. Thus, sentences in the sequence of ABDCEF form a coherent paragraph which is about the importance of knowledge and the desire of all men to attain the same. Hence (d) is the correct choice.

Q12 Text Solution:

If we go by the options, statement (B) should begin the paragraph. There is a clear connection between the sentences (B) and (A) ["empirical systems" in the sentence (B) and

"such systems" in the sentence (A)]. The sentence (C) concludes the paragraph in a proper way. Thus, sentences in the sequence of BADC form a coherent paragraph which is about demand for development services in the educational institutions. Hence (a) is the correct choice.

Q13 Text Solution:

The passage starts with a statement by Abigail Adams in light of women centric development and further draws attention to recent movements in India including #MeToo and Sabrimala protests. The writer further tries to analyse the reasons for these movements and mentions the declining inequality in education. He adds the usual scenes witnessed within towns and villages where mornings are brightened with the women and girls dressed in uniforms, walking to schools. Therefore, the correct sequence formed after rearrangement will be:

BEDACF

Q14 Text Solution:

The sentence talks about the impact of new technology revolutionising communication. The word "Implementation" means putting something into effect, which is not the most appropriate word in this context. "Obsolescence" means the state of being outdated or no longer in use, which does not fit the context of revolutionising communication. "Adaptation" means the process of adjusting to new circumstances, which is not the most appropriate word in this context. "Proliferation" means rapid increase or growth, which fits the context of technology revolutionising communication.

Therefore, Option (d) is the correct answer.

Q15 Text Solution:

The sentence describes the manager's leadership style and its impact on the team. The word "autocratic" suggests a style of leadership where the manager has full control and makes decisions without much input from the team. The word "perceptive" implies being insightful and understanding, which can inspire and motivate the team. Option (B) (lenient) and (D) (indecisive) do not align with the idea of inspiring and motivating the team. Therefore, Option (c) is the correct answer.

Q16 Text Solution:

The sentence describes a person who faces setbacks and obstacles but continues to persevere until they achieve their goal. The word "determined" fits the context perfectly, meaning having a firm resolution or strong will. Options (B), (C), and (D) do not convey the idea of persistence or determination. Therefore, the correct answer is Option (a).

Q17 Text Solution:

The question highlights the educational institution's commitment to fostering creativity and innovation, suggesting exceptional outcomes in terms of graduates' achievements. Option (b) exemplary best represents this idea, indicating graduates who serve as outstanding examples, role models, or benchmarks of success. Hence, option (b) is the correct answer.

Q18. Text Solution:

The correct option is (c) because the main purpose of the Women's Reservation Bill is to address the gender imbalance in political representation by reserving one-third of all seats in the Lok Sabha and state assemblies for women. The other options are incorrect as they misrepresent the bill's intent.

Option (a) To discriminate against men in politics - This is incorrect because the bill's purpose is not to discriminate against men but to address gender imbalance.

Option (b) To reserve all political seats for women - This is incorrect as the bill aims to reserve one-third, not all, political seats for women.

Option (d) To eliminate all competition among politicians - This is incorrect because the bill does not aim to eliminate competition but rather promote gender balance.

Q19. Text Solution:

The original sentence should be "The progress has been lethargic and it's a stark reminder that democracy has not given women the voice they deserve ". It discusses the slow progress in achieving gender equality in Indian democracy and highlights the stark underrepresentation of women in political leadership. It conveys a sense of disappointment and frustration with the current state of affairs, implying that democracy has not fulfilled its potential to provide equal representation and a voice for women in politics.

The phrase "has not given women the voice they deserve" encapsulates this sentiment by suggesting that democracy has fallen short in empowering and representing women effectively. It emphasizes the disparity between the promise of democracy and the actual level of women's participation in political decision-making, making it a suitable and accurate filler for the sentence.

Option (a) " inherently flawed and biased" - This option suggests that democracy itself is fundamentally flawed and biased, which is not the intended message in the given context . The sentence is focusing on the lack of women's representation in democracy, not criticizing democracy as a system.

Option (b) "promotes gender equality effectively" - This option contradicts the message of the given context of the paragraph consisting this statement, which highlights the slow progress in achieving gender equality in politics. It doesn't align with the statement's tone of criticism.

Option (c) "strives for equal representation" - While this option is a positive statement, it doesn't capture the essence of the given context, which emphasizes the slow progress and lack of women's voices in democracy.

Option (d) "values diversity in political leadership" - This option, like option (c), presents a positive view of democracy, but it doesn't address the issue raised in the paragraph, which is the underrepresentation of women in political leadership.

Q20. Text Solution:

The correct option is (b) concerned. The author's tone in the passage is concerned, as they express worry and criticism regarding the gender imbalance in politics and the need for action to address it.

Option (a) Informative - This option is incorrect because while the passage does contain information, the primary tone of the passage goes beyond mere information-sharing. The author expresses a critical perspective on the gender imbalance in politics and the need for the Women's Reservation Bill, indicating a tone that goes beyond pure informativeness.

Option (c) Optimistic - This option is incorrect because the passage does not convey an overall sense of optimism. While it discusses a legislative remedy (the Women's Reservation Bill), it does so in the context of a longstanding gender imbalance and political inaction, which are presented in a critical manner.

Option (d) Analytical - This option is incorrect because while the passage may contain some analytical elements in discussing the issue of gender imbalance and the proposed solution, the overall tone is more concerned and critical rather than purely analytical.

Option (e) Indifferent - This option is incorrect because the passage clearly conveys a sense of concern and criticism about the gender imbalance in politics. It is not indifferent; rather, it takes a stance on the issue and advocates for change through the Women's Reservation Bill.

Q21. Text Solution:

The correct answer is (e) "Supportive." Throughout the passage, the author expresses support for the Women's Reservation Bill as a necessary legislative remedy to address the gender imbalance in politics. The author criticizes the lack of voluntary action by political parties and emphasizes the importance of the bill, indicating a tone of advocacy and support for its implementation. This support is evident in statements such as "The Women's Reservation Bill...now stands as a legislative remedy for this imbalance" and "It is the result of decades of unfulfilled promises and persistent gender bias within political parties."

Option (a) Enthusiastic - This option is incorrect because the author's tone in the passage is not enthusiastic but rather critical of the gender imbalance in politics. While the author supports the Women's Reservation Bill, the overall tone is more concerned and critical than enthusiastic. Option (b) Sceptical - This option is incorrect because the author is not sceptical about the Women's Reservation Bill. The author argues in favor of the bill as a solution to address gender imbalance and criticizes the inaction of political parties. Scepticism would imply doubt or reservation, which is not the author's stance. Option (c) Indifferent - This option is incorrect because the author's tone is not indifferent. The passage conveys a sense of concern and urgency regarding the gender imbalance in politics and the need for action through the Women's Reservation Bill. Option (d) Ambivalent - This option is incorrect because ambivalence suggests mixed feelings or uncertainty. The author's tone is not ambivalent but rather clear in advocating for the Women's Reservation Bill as a necessary remedy for gender inequality in politics.

Q22. Text Solution:

The correct option is (a) because the primary argument against the Women's Reservation Bill, as mentioned in the passage, is that it promotes fairness and merit-based competition rather than gender-based reservation. The other options are incorrect as they do not represent the argument presented in the passage.

Option (b) It discriminates against women - This is incorrect as the argument is about promoting fairness, not discrimination.

Option (c) It lacks support from the majority of politicians - This is incorrect as the argument is not about political support.

Option (d) It is a heavy-handed approach - This is correct; the passage mentions concerns about the bill being heavy-handed in promoting gender-based reservation.

Q23. Text Solution:

The correct option is (a) Gender Disparity in Politics. This title accurately reflects the central theme of the passage, which discusses the gender imbalance in Indian politics and the proposed Women's Reservation Bill as a solution. The other options do not capture the main focus of the passage or provide misleading information.

Option (b) The Success of Women's Reservation Bill - This option is incorrect because the passage primarily discusses the need for the Women's Reservation Bill and the ongoing gender disparity in Indian politics. While the bill is mentioned as a legislative remedy, the passage does not provide evidence of its success or implementation. The title suggests an optimistic perspective that is not fully supported by the passage's content. Option (c) The Decline of Female Representation - This option is incorrect because the passage does not focus on a decline in female representation. Instead, it highlights the persistently low level of female representation in Indian politics over the years and the need for intervention through the Women's Reservation Bill. The title implies a different narrative than what the passage presents. Option (d) India's Political Landscape - This option is incorrect because it is too broad and does not capture the specific focus of the passage, which is on the gender imbalance in Indian politics and the proposed solution. The title does not provide enough context about the passage's content and could refer to a wide range of political topics beyond gender disparity.

Q24. Text Solution:

The correct option is (b) because the passage suggests that increased female representation in elected bodies can promote social inclusion, gender equality, and overall societal development.

Option (a) It can lead to the exclusion of men from politics - This option is incorrect because the passage does not suggest that increased female representation in elected bodies leads to the exclusion of men from politics. The passage advocates for gender balance and equality in politics, not exclusion. Option (c) It can eliminate competition among politicians - This option is incorrect because the passage does not indicate that increased female representation eliminates competition among politicians. While it discusses the Women's Reservation Bill as a measure to address gender imbalance, it does not suggest that competition among politicians will cease. Option (d) It can increase gender bias in decision-making - This option is incorrect because the passage actually suggests the opposite. It implies that increased female representation can lead to more diverse perspectives and priorities, which can help reduce gender bias in decision-making.

Q25. Text Solution:

The sentence in the passage is structured as follows.

"E - However, this argument is untenable when viewed in the context of the systemic exclusion and the injustices women have historically faced.

B - Gender-based seat reservation is not

C - about discriminating against men

D - in the context of the systemic exclusion and

A - the injustices women have historically faced."

In this sequence, the sentence begins with "However" (E), indicating a contrast or counterpoint to a previous argument. It then establishes the context (B) that gender-based seat reservation is not about discriminating against men (C) but rather about addressing the systemic exclusion and historical injustices faced by women (A).

So, option (e) "EBCDA" correctly forms a meaningful and coherent sentence by presenting the counterargument (E) first and then explaining the context and the main point (BCDA) that follows.

Option (a) ACDBE - This sequence starts with part A, "About discriminating against men," which doesn't make sense as an opening because it lacks context. The logical flow of the sentence is disrupted because it doesn't provide the necessary background for the argument against discriminating against men.

Option (b) BACDE - This arrangement begins with part B, "in the context of the systemic exclusion," which is premature and doesn't establish the initial point or argument being made in the passage. It lacks the introductory element necessary for coherence.

Option (c) DCBEA - This option starts with part D, "Gender-based seat reservation is not," which is an incomplete and confusing beginning for the sentence. It doesn't provide the context or the counterargument needed to understand the argument's progression.

Option (d) CDEBA - This sequence starts with part C, "the injustices women have historically faced," which also lacks an introductory element to set up the counterargument. It jumps into the discussion without the necessary context and logic.

These options are incorrect because they do not maintain a logical and coherent flow of thought in the sentence, which is crucial for effective communication.

Q26 Text Solution:

The correct option is (b). Both sentences 1 and 3 are grammatically and contextually correct. In the 2nd sentence, there is a minor grammatical error. The adjective "economical" is incorrect in this context. It should be "economic" to properly modify the "multiplier."

Economical means giving good value or service in relation to the amount of money, time, or effort spent.

So, the corrected sentence would be:

A capital-intensive and multi-sector industry, tourism and travel is an important economic multiplier under-recognized in its ability to support all segments of the economy.

Q27 Text Solution:

The correct option is (c).

Both sentences 1 and 2 are grammatically and contextually correct. In the 3rd sentence, the word "associates" is incorrect in this context. It should be "association" because the sentence is referring to the relationship between environmental variables and sleep efficiency, which is a singular noun.

So, the corrected sentence would be:

The research, published in the journal Sleep Health, is one of the first to measure multiple environmental variables in the bedroom and analyse their association with sleep efficiency.

Q28 Text Solution:

The correct option is (d). Both sentences 1 and 2 are grammatically and contextually correct. In the 3rd sentence, the word "product" is wrong in this context. It should be "production" because the word "production" refers to the act of making or manufacturing something, and the sentence describes the use of these substances in the manufacturing process.

So, the corrected sentence would be:

"The protocol curbs the release of ozone-depleting substances that could disperse, but does not ban their use in the production of other chemicals as raw materials or by-products".

Q29 Text Solution:

Option # (d) is correct as the 2nd sentence is grammatically and contextually correct. In the first sentence, the word "seasonal" is wrong; in this context, it should be "unseasonal" because it implies that the rains occurred during a time when they were not supposed to and hence caused a slight loss in the output of the crop production in Punjab and Haryana. The 3rd sentence is grammatically wrong as the verb "fall" should be in the past participle form "fallen".

Q30 Text Solution:

The option (b) is the right answer. Both 1 and 2 are grammatically and contextually correct. In 3, we need to replace the word INSIGNIFICANT with the word SIGNIFICANT because "insignificant" implies that the distribution rules had a negative impact on the profits of the companies making Covid-19 vaccines, which is not the case. In reality, the distribution rules would have likely increased demand for the vaccines and thus increased the profits of these companies. Therefore, "significant" is a more appropriate word to use in this context.

Q31. Text Solution:

The ICRA report highlights that the key drivers of credit quality improvements in India Inc during H1 FY2024 were robust domestic consumption and investments in specific sectors. This is clearly mentioned in the passage, making option (c) the correct answer.

Option (a) is not correct because the passage does not mention foreign investments and exports as key drivers of credit quality improvements.

Option (b) is not correct because while government stimulus packages can have an impact on the economy, the passage specifically attributes credit quality improvements to domestic consumption and sector-specific investments.

Option (d) is not correct because there is no mention of decreased competition in the passage as a driver of credit quality improvements.

Option (e) is not correct because the passage does not discuss the expansion of India's manufacturing sector as a key driver of credit quality improvements.

Q32. Text Solution:

The passage mentions that the hospitality sector experienced a significant rebound in H1 FY2024, with sharp recoveries in occupancy rates and average room rates, leading to several credit upgrades. Therefore, option (d) is the correct answer.

Option (a) is not correct because the passage discusses auto components separately and does not mention a rebound in occupancy rates and room rates in this context.

Option (b) is not correct because while realty did show resilience, the passage does not mention a rebound in occupancy rates and room rates as the reason for credit upgrades in this sector.

Option (c) is not correct because the power sector is discussed in a different context, related to policy reforms, and not in terms of a rebound in occupancy rates and room rates.

Option (e) is not correct because the passage mentions the roads sector but does not attribute credit upgrades to a rebound in occupancy rates and room rates in this sector.

Q33. Text Solution:

According to the passage, credit upgrades in the power sector during H1 FY2024 were led by the realization of long-pending receivables from power distribution companies, which were cleared under the Late Payment Surcharge (LPS) scheme. Therefore, option (c) is the correct answer.

Option (a) is not correct because the passage does not mention increased electricity consumption as a specific reason for credit upgrades.

Q93 Text Solution:

Combining the statement, I, and II we get the following family tree diagram:

Hence, Option (c) is the correct answer.

Q94 Text Solution:

Checking → Statement I:

References:

- O sits second from the left end.
- Three persons are sitting between O and Q.
- The number of persons sitting to the left of T is the same as the number of persons sitting to the right of P.

Inferences:

From the above reference, we can't say who sits second to the right of U because U is not mentioned in the references.

Hence, statement I alone is not sufficient to answer the question.

Checking → Statement II:

References:

- Three persons sit to the left of M.
- The number of persons sitting to the right of M is the same as the number of persons sitting to the left of U.
- One person sits between U and S, who sits adjacent to M.

Inferences:

From the above references, we can conclude the following:

We can't say who sits second to the right of U.

Hence, statement II alone is not sufficient to answer the question.

Checking → Statement III:

References:

- T sits at the extreme left end.
- The number of persons sitting to the left of T is the same as the number of persons sitting to the right of P.
- R sits adjacent to P.

Inferences:

From the above reference, we can't say who sits second to the right of U because U is not mentioned in the references.

Hence, statement I alone is not sufficient to answer the question.

Checking → Statement I and II together:

We can't say who sits second to the right of U.

Hence, statements I and II together are not sufficient to answer the question.

Checking → Statement II and III together:

We can say that R sits second to the right of U.

Hence, statements II and III together are sufficient to answer the question.

Hence, Option (b) is the correct answer.
