Exercise Questions (Page 42)

Question 1:

In what way is Pambupatti different from any other village?

Answer:

People in Pambupatti lived peacefully as they did not fight or get involved in communal riots in the name of religion or language. This proved that Pambupatti was not like any other village but different from them.

Question 2:

Why is Prem determined not to return to his village?

Answer:

Prem was determined not to return to his village because communal riots of hate and violence were happening in his village. He and other villagers felt that it was unsafe for them to reside in the village where houses were being burnt, and people were killing each other and getting involved in communal violence.

Question 3:

Why did Makara dislike tortoises, snakes and lizards? Write a line about each.

Answer:

Makara disliked tortoises because they were slow and stupid, and carried their houses on their backs.

Makara disliked snakes because they were slimy, made funny noises and were poisonous in nature.

Makara disliked lizards because they had the strangest habits, such as changing colour, which made them unreliable.

Question 4:

What went wrong when the tortoises, snakes and lizards left the forest?

Answer:

When the tortoises, snakes and lizards left the forest, they went through a tough phase. The forest was filled with a rotting smell of fruits and animals due to the absence of tortoises. Once the snakes left, the forest was taken over by the rats as there was no one to eat them. Finally, insects grew bigger and multiplied in millions due to the absence of the lizards.

Question 5:

Why do you think Prem wants to tell the story of the reptiles to the people of his village?

Answer:

Prem wanted to tell the story of the reptiles to the people of his village because he understood that they had unnecessarily involved themselves in communal violence. He wanted the people of his village to live peacefully and maintain law and order. The story of the reptiles underlined the significance of living together in peace and harmony like Pambupatti.

Question 6:

Do you agree that it is difficult not to go along with someone who is very strong and powerful? Express your views frankly and clearly.

Answer:

On a general note, common people are peace-loving, weak and submissive in nature. Most of them do have a fear of the strong and powerful people due to their tyranny and unjust exercise of authority. It is a facet of the nature of ordinary people to adhere to the interests of the strong in order to maintain their own safety and security. But if such common people raise the bar by standing up against the bullies and start voicing their opinion against the tyrants, they are likely to overcome oppression and maintain peace and harmony in society.

Question 7:

If you were a baby crocodile, would you tell Makara that he was wrong? What would you say to convince him?

Answer:

Being a baby crocodile, I would definitely explain to Makara the consequences the forest might face if the other reptiles left it. Besides, I would also mention that every living organism has the right to live on its own wherever it wants. It is imperative for strong people to protect the ordinary masses and not take undue advantage of their weaknesses. Therefore, every living being is interdependent and has a vital role to play in maintaining the ecological balance in the beautiful environment of the Earth.

I. SHORT ANSWER TYPE QUESTIONS

1.What was it that made Prem leave his village?

Ans: The communal riots in his village made life unsafe in the village. The people went mad, burnt houses and killed one another. So Prem left his village for good.

2. What surprised Prem in Pambupatti village?

Ans. Prem had seen people in his village fighting in the name of religion or language. But in Pambupatti, there was no violence, not even tension. People lived in peace. They also cared for the welfare of even strangers. This was something surprising for Prem.

3.What happened to the reptiles in the forest once?

Ans: The reptiles in the forest included crocodiles, snakes, turtles and lizards. Makara, being strong and selfish, drove all other reptiles out. He got rid of turtles, snakes and lizards one by one. But this created the problem of frogs ' and rats and insects.

4. How did the forest become normal and peaceful again?

Ans: It was a terrible time for the crocodiles. A small crocodile pointed out what had gone wrong. They knew that Makara was not all that strong and right. They called all their reptile friends back to Pambupatti. Their arrival marked the beginning of normal and peaceful life again in the forest.

II. LONG ANSWER TYPE QUESTIONS

1. Narrate the story of the reptiles as told by Zai Whitaker in not more than 80 words.

Ans: Prem was a native of a village far from Pambupatti. Communal riots broke out and Prem left the village. He walked and got free lifts. He reached Pambupatti. There an old man told him a tale of reptiles—snakes, crocodiles, lizards and turtles. Makara, the biggest crocodile, was the master of the forest. He became selfish and vain. He managed to get rid of all the cobras and other reptiles. As a result the forest was infested with rats. Awful things happened. The reptiles were welcomed back to strike a balance.

2. What is the story's underlying message or advice to the readers? Do you also support the author's view?

Ans: The story of the reptiles is a myth but it has a moral and a message. This world belongs to all sorts of creatures. Together they keep a balance. Every kind of creature serves a useful purpose. It is sad that man is trying to kill all the species and rule over the world like a dictator. This is certainly not practicable or in his own interest. Our motto should be to 'Live and Let Live'. I quite subscribe to this view.

NCERT Class 6 English Supplementary Chapter 9 Important Questions

Why is Prem determined not to return to his village?

Prem was resolute in his decision not to go back to his village because the villagers had become irrational and set fire to mosques and temples. A religious turmoil had gripped his village, leading to chaos. Witnessing the disorder caused by religious conflicts, Prem became steadfast in his determination to stay away from his village. For more comprehensive and improved responses, it is advisable to refer to your textbook. Additionally, remember to seek solutions to all such chapter-related questions from Physics Wallah.

Why Didn't Prem Want to Go Back to His Village?

Prem resided in an extremely turbulent village. In this locality, there was constant conflict and unrest among the residents. Certain groups of individuals engaged in arson and turmoil by setting houses ablaze. Prem managed to flee from that situation and had no desire to return there ever again.

What Happened When the Tortoise, Snake, and Lizards Left the Forest?

After the tortoise departed from the forest, the whole woodland began to carry a scent similar to spoiled fruit. This smell lured in rats, and with no snakes or lizards around, the rat population began to increase rapidly. Additionally, various unpleasant insects began to populate the forest.

What went wrong when the tortoise snakes and lizards left the forest in Chapter 9 of Class 6 English?

As the snakes, lizards, and tortoises left the forest, a stinky smell of decaying fruits and fish started spreading slowly. More rats appeared because there were no snakes around. With no lizards, countless insects took over the forest.

Why do you think Prem wants to tell the story of the reptiles to the people of his village according to NCERT Class 12 Supplementary English Chapter 9?

Prem wished to share the tale of the reptiles with his village folks as he realised they were caught up in communal strife without reason.
