

NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English Footprints without Feet Chapter 4: The most comprehensive NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English Footprints Without Feet Chapter 4 are provided by us. The chapter consists of a single prose piece titled "A Question of Trust." Our group of knowledgeable experts has created the Class 10 NCERT Solutions to give students the most organised answers possible.

The solutions are merely meant to assist students in comprehending the material, providing effective answers to exam questions, and improving their grades in English. To get started on your preparations, get the chapter's NCERT Solutions in PDF format from the link provided below.

NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English Footprints without Feet Chapter 4 Overview

Students read about Horace Danby, a crook, in this story. He had two assistants and ran a profitable lock-making business. Each year, Horace would break into a safe and steal books he adored, using an agency to cover his expenses for a full year. But this time, he made the choice to rob the Shotover Grange residence. When he got there and went to open the safe, a young woman caught him red-handed. If he assisted her in removing the diamonds from the safe, she promised to let him leave and not to notify the police. After unlocking the safe and giving her the gems, he left her smiling.

Two days later, with his fingerprints all over Shotover Grange, the police arrested him for jewel theft. While incarcerated, Horace was frequently reminded of the astute and endearing young woman who worked in the same field as him but deceived him. Ever thereafter, he became enraged whenever someone spoke "honour among thieves."

NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English Footprints without Feet Chapter 4

1. What Does Horace Danby Like to Collect?

Horace Danby was a 50-year-old man of integrity. He liked to collect pricey and rare books and lived with a housekeeper because he was single.

2. Why Does He Steal Every Year?

Every year, Horace would break into a safe to purchase the pricey and rare books he loved to collect. Every year he meticulously plotted his activities, stole enough to last a whole year, and used an agent to covertly purchase the books he adored.

3. Who is Speaking to Horace Danby?

A woman who posed as a member of the Shotover Grange household. She wore a crimson outfit and looked lovely. She pretended that if she hadn't returned in time, Horace would have robbed her family.

4. Who is the Real Culprit in the Story?

The real offender was the woman in the red outfit. When Horace came in to rob the house, she pretended to be a member of the family. She fooled Horace and stole everything from the safe. Horace was charged with the crime as she managed to flee without harm.

Think About It

1. Did You Begin To Suspect, Before the End of the Story, That the Lady Was Not the Person Horace Danby Took Her To Be? If So, at What Point Did You Realize This, and How?

The woman looked surprisingly composed for someone who had just experienced a robbery at her house. Even before Horace Danby had any notion who she was, I had suspicions about her.

Instead of phoning the police, which is not often done in such a case, she pretended to have forgotten the numbers to open the safe and urged him to smash it open and remove the diamonds. She was not the person she was claiming to be, as these behaviours made clear right away.

2. What are the Subtle Ways in Which the Lady Manages To Deceive Horace Danby Into Thinking She is the Lady of the House? Why Doesn't Horace Suspect That Something is Wrong?

A young woman with a gentle voice entered the room as Horace was trying to break into the safe. She presented herself as the lady of the home, and it was immediately clear that she was the one because of her self-assurance and ease when performing commonplace tasks like lighting a cigarette. When Horace saw her, he became afraid. If he was nice to her, he might be able to get out of serious problems.

3. "Horace Danby Was Good and Respectable – but Not Completely Honest". Why Do You Think This Description is Apt for Horace? Why Can't He Be Categorized as a Typical Thief?

Fifty-year-old Horace Danby stole from the wealthy to fulfil his desire to purchase pricey and rare books. He was prosperous in his profession of making locks, but he had a bad habit of stealing to pay for his indulgences. He did not steal regularly or for his own survival, so he cannot be classified as a normal thief.

He just committed theft to fund his lavish lifestyle, and he employed two individuals to assist him in his company. He was good since he didn't even plot any more robberies, as he had promised the woman.

4. Horace Danby Was a Meticulous Planner but Still, He Faltered. Where Did He Go Wrong and Why?

Although Horace had never failed in a robbery attempt before, he did not sufficiently investigate the true residents of the house this time. He had met the woman in the house on short notice, and he decided it would be best to treat her well to avoid any kind of trouble.

Because of this, he was unable to reason, so he followed her directions and became entangled in her scheme. Because he was so nervous, he even opened the safe without donning gloves, leaving fingerprints behind and leading to his capture.

Talk About It

1. Do You Think Horace Danby Was Unfairly Punished, or That He Deserved What He Got?

Horace did not get an unreasonable penalty. Having never been caught in his prior attempts, he was caught this time around without really stealing anything. He was almost caught this time, having been duped by another thief, as a result of his past actions.

2. Do Intentions Justify Actions? Would You, Like Horace Danby, Do Something Wrong if You Thought Your Ends Justified the Means? Do You Think That There Are Situations in Which It is Excusable To Act Less Than Honestly?

Your acts cannot be justified if they might cause harm to someone, even with the best of intentions. Nobody should be harmed or caused harm by us solely for financial gain. No, I don't believe I would act improperly like Horace did. In situations where there is no harm being done, acting dishonestly can be justified.

Benefits of NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English Footprints without Feet Chapter 4

NCERT Solution Class 10 Our Footprints Without Feet The fastest, easiest, and most rational strategies to help a student get the required board exam scores are provided in Chapter 4. A Question of Trust Class 10 Solutions by us follows the same format as the chapter.

The questions and answers are arranged logically to facilitate finding the solutions. What they offer is a clear and thorough method that will help you retain the chapter better. Learning and studying become more effective before to the board exams. Nothing could prevent you from acing your board exams if you have our Class 10 English Chapter 4 A Question of Trust Solutions.

