NCERT Solutions for Class 7 Social Science Civics Chapter 5 Long & Short Ques and Ans

Long Answer Questions:

1) Explain the role of education in bringing about social change, particularly in the context of women's empowerment.

Answer: Education plays a pivotal role in social change, especially concerning women's empowerment. It acts as a catalyst for challenging traditional norms, fostering awareness, and promoting equality. By providing women with education, they become more aware of their rights, gain the skills needed to access employment opportunities, and contribute to breaking gender stereotypes.

2) Discuss the significance of the women's movement in advocating for gender equality.

Answer: The women's movement has been instrumental in advocating for gender equality. It emerged to address the systematic discrimination and inequality faced by women. Through protests, campaigns, and legal reforms, the movement has contributed to changes in societal attitudes and policies. It empowers women to challenge stereotypes, demand equal rights, and actively participate in social and political spheres.

Short Answer Questions:

1) Why is unpaid domestic work considered an essential contribution to society?

Answer: Unpaid domestic work, often performed by women, includes tasks such as caregiving, household chores, and nurturing family members. While not monetarily compensated, this work is crucial for the well-being of individuals and the functioning of society. It provides emotional support, maintains households, and allows other family members to engage in economic activities.

2) How can education act as a tool for challenging stereotypes?

Answer: Education exposes individuals to diverse perspectives, critical thinking, and knowledge. By providing both men and women with education, stereotypes ingrained in society can be challenged. Education encourages questioning traditional norms, promotes gender sensitivity, and empowers individuals to pursue careers and roles beyond predefined gender expectations.

3) Explain the concept of 'Learning for Change' as discussed in the chapter.

Answer: 'Learning for Change' emphasizes education not only as a means of acquiring knowledge but as a tool for social transformation. It encourages individuals, especially women, to learn and question societal norms, fostering a mindset that promotes equality. This concept suggests that education should instill a sense of social responsibility and contribute to positive changes in society.

4) What is the significance of the women's movement in challenging rigid expectations placed on women?

Answer: The women's movement challenges rigid expectations placed on women by advocating for their rights and equality. It contests societal norms that limit women's roles to traditional stereotypes. By addressing issues like unequal pay, limited opportunities, and gender-based violence, the movement plays a crucial role in dismantling rigid expectations and fostering a more inclusive and equitable society.

NCERT Solutions for Class 7 Social Science Civics Chapter 5 Exercise Questions

Multiple Choice Questions (MCQs):

1) What is the primary focus of the women's movement?

- a) Economic dominance
- b) Gender equality
- c) Political supremacy
- Answer: b) Gender equality

2) How does education contribute to reducing gender-based discrimination?

- a) By reinforcing stereotypes
- b) By limiting awareness
- c) By challenging traditional norms
- Answer: c) By challenging traditional norms

3) How do stereotypes impact women's right to equality?

Solution: Women's equality is hindered by pervasive stereotypes that position them as inferior to men. Prevailing beliefs suggest that women lack the technical skills needed for professions like engineering and science, confining them to roles such as teaching and nursing. Such stereotypes dictate societal expectations, impeding the fight for women's equality and contributing to the gender pay gap.

4) Why was learning the alphabet crucial for women like Rashundari Devi, Ramabai, and Rokeya?

Solution: For women like Rashundari Devi, Ramabai, and Rokeya, learning the alphabet empowered them to document their struggles against societal inequalities. It enabled them to write letters, stories, and autobiographies, providing a means to articulate and share their experiences of fighting against prevalent gender disparities.

5) Is the statement "Poor girls drop out of school because they are not interested in getting an education" accurate?

Solution: No, the statement is not accurate. Poor girls often drop out of school due to various compounding factors rather than a lack of interest in education. In many rural and backward areas, schools lack basic infrastructure and regular teaching staff. Parents might prioritize early marriage over education for girls, viewing it as a lesser priority and discouraging expenditure on their daughters' schooling.

6) Describe two methods of struggle used by women's movements and propose a method to combat stereotypes about women.

Solution: Women's movements employ various methods, two of which are:

(a) Campaigning: Campaigns are instrumental in fighting discrimination and violence against women. Notable examples include campaigns leading to the passage of laws protecting women from domestic violence and sexual harassment in the workplace.

(b) Protesting: Public protests draw attention to injustices, creating awareness. To combat stereotypes, I would choose the method of organizing public protests. Raising awareness alone can debunk stereotypes, as convincing people of the hindrance negative stereotypes pose to societal progress is essential.

(c) Boycott: Boycotting establishments perpetuating discrimination can effectively combat stereotypes. For instance, boycotting products with discriminatory advertisements sends a strong message against reinforcing negative stereotypes. The rejection of such products fosters a societal stance against harmful stereotypes and promotes a more inclusive environment.
